

The default infrastructure layer for P2P asset management

Democratizing asset management

As we enter the era of the Internet of Value, and the World Wide Web evolves into a World Wide Ledger based on Blockchain technology, anything will be tokenized and will become an asset. The new all-encompassing asset class needs tools to invest in and manage such investments, a P2P Asset Management Ecosystem fully developed on Ethereum, built upon our belief in a world where finance flows freely and assets are managed by many instead of the few.

Why the FLUON ECOSYSTEM?

We have identified three major hurdles to democratize asset management and investing: asset tokenisation, investor pooling and liquidity. Providing protocols for the tokenisation of any asset is key to manage cryptocurrencies, help the transition of traditional asset management to the blockchain and to provide tokenisation options for anything of value in the future. Secondly, providing a way to pool capital and investments for aggregated management is a must. Lastly, giving any investor the capacity to re-format their risk through an inherently liquid system is vital.

What it does

FLUON is the first decentralized asset management ecosystem that makes it extremely easy for organisations, entrepreneurs and investors to manage and invest in any token. Moreover, it will allow anyone to seamlessly re-allocate their capital, invest and manage it with users deciding which type of asset management service they provide, their cost, governance and other parameters.

Gaining exposure to all cryptocurrencies

The system creates fully transmissible tokens for every investment pool, with the FLUON serving as the system incentive and liquidity provider.

The FLUON allows its holders to gain exposure to every asset under management. As the Ecosystem grows so does exposure to cryptocurrencies in the first instance and other assets in the future.

The FLUON token provides exposure to all cryptocurrencies
